Introduction to the Dell Medical School

Edna Parra, Program Manager, Communications & Community Engagement, Dell Medical School

Edna Parra is a Communications and Community Engagement Program Manager at the Dell Medical School. She is passionate about working with families and organizations to foster community-based programs in Austin's fast-changing environment.

Edna is a 2019 Community Health Champion and is very excited to work as a team and learn about great health organizations and initiatives in the area.

Quality of Care Panel Discussion

Vanessa Sweet, Strategy Manager, Central Health

Vanessa Sweet is a successful facilitator, strategist and a project management enthusiast. She is a Texicana by blood but Haitian and French by fate. Her energy for strategy and integration have been shared in both international and local settings. She brings more than 10 years of experience in herding cats, changing company cultures to include evaluation and planning, and inspiring community-based groups to action.

She completed her undergraduate studies at the University of Texas at Austin and earned a Master of Public Health from the UT Health Science Center at Houston and a Master of Healthcare Management from KEDGE Business School in Bordeaux, France. Vanessa enjoys spending time at her parent's ranch in Taylor, Texas and tending to the animals. She also enjoys staying active and traveling to discover new cultures.

Dr. Tracy Angelocci, Chief Medical Information Officer, Lone Star Circle of Care

Tracy Angelocci, M.D., an Internal Medicine/Pediatrics physician, has served for 8 years as the Chief Medical Information Officer (CMIO) for Lone Star Circle of Care (LSCC) - one of the largest Federally Qualified Health Centers in the nation. LSCC serves more than 87,000 patients annually in nearly two dozen clinic locations spanning 6 counties in central and southeastern Texas.

As CMIO, Dr. Angelocci leads the Population Health Team and the Clinical Analytics Department. She holds leadership roles in Accountable Care Organizations and Value Based Contracting, Electronic Health Records and technology, Meaningful Use/Promoting Interoperability, and Patient Centered Medical Home activities.

Dr. Angelocci previously served as Director of Clinical Application Design and Vice President of Medical Informatics, leading the Product Division of an Ambulatory EHR company. In that role, she managed the complete software lifecycle of an enterprise-level clinical application suite, from initial design concept to general software release and maintenance.

Yvonne Camarena, Chief Operating Officer, CommUnityCare Health Centers

Yvonne is a solutions-focused administrator with a comprehensive background in clinical, administrative, and quality fields. She is accomplished in transforming healthcare delivery models.

Prior to assuming her current role, she was CommUnityCare's Director of Nursing. Before joining CommUnityCare, Yvonne was the Chief Operating Officer of Tiburcio Vasquez Health Center in Northern California.

Yvonne graduated from University of Texas Rio Grande Valley (formerly Pan American University) with an Associate Degree in Nursing. She continued her education with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from the University of Texas at Austin followed by a Masters in Healthcare Administration from Kaplan University. In addition, Yvonne recently received an appointment as an adjunct professor at The University of Texas at Austin School of Nursing.

She began her healthcare career as a nurse's aide in an acute care hospital. Having begun with bedside care, she understands the importance of patient care at all service levels. She is passionate about creating a caring environment for the patients we serve and developing positive employee engagement.

Mary McDowell, Deputy Chief Executive Officer, People's Community Clinic

Experienced in both the non-profit and private sectors, Mary has worked in operations and management for over 20 years, following a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Georgia and a Master from the University of Texas.

She currently serves as Treasurer for the Board and Finance Committee for Leadership Austin, and she previously served on the Board for Austin Freeten and on the Public Policy Committee for One Voice Central Texas.

Elizabeth Marrero, Program Director, Central Health Southeast Health & Wellness Center

Elizabeth Marrero directs the Central Health Southeast Health and Wellness Center's partnerships, implementation of activities, and program development. She oversees building operations and works closely with Central Health and CommUnityCare staff on outreach and communications to increase access to the communities served. She is also currently an academic advisor for Columbia University.

Prior to joining Central Health and CommUnityCare in 2012, Elizabeth was the Community Development Specialist for Parkland Hospital where her primary responsibilities were to address and identify gaps in services, coordinate health events, and assess the needs of underserved residents of Dallas County. She has also worked as an independent consultant working on strategic development projects for non-profit and institutional clients nationally. Elizabeth earned her Master of Social Work and International Policy from Columbia University and received her Bachelor of Science in Social Work from the University of North Texas. She was a Congressional Black Caucus Leadership Institute for Public Service Fellow in 2002.
